MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

CORPUS CONNECTION

As I write this article, as a society and as a College community we have been living and coping with the Coronavirus pandemic. I sincerely hope that all Alumni and their families have weathered the storm and are well placed to return to normality. This gives me the opportunity to focus on change and how well we have managed the provision of the curriculum and also, importantly, our connectedness to each other.

As worldwide events began to have a local impact on our country, state, region and school, every member of society was immediately thrust into a life of uncertainty and fear, fundamentally because of the massive amount of change that was happening in our lives at a very rapid pace. Change can be very challenging because of the uncertainty of what may occur in the future. The key for the College in managing the change was to manage aspects of our operations in which we had control.

Tennis champion Arthur Ashe on change:

'Most people resist change, even when it promises to be for the better. But change will come, and if you acknowledge this simple but indisputable fact of life, and understand that you must adjust to all change, then you will have a head start.'

The legislated changes to our lives impacted on how we delivered the curriculum to our students. At the end of last Term, we were able to be agile and flexible in delivering curriculum in a different way, that is remotely. This was only possible because the College continues to develop students who are resilient, reflective and communicators seeking excellence. With our world class teaching and technical staff, robust and powerful digital infrastructure, coupled with students engaging in a relevant curriculum, the community adapted beautifully to the massive change in College life.

As a society and as a local community, this experience has reminded us about the aspects of school life that can not be forgotten or seen as secondary to purposeful academic curriculum delivery. We know that connection and relationship is required between individuals to provide the necessary ecosystem for engagement and ultimately success.

The change in the mode of curriculum delivery was efficient, however, evidence from students, staff and parents confirmed that the life and growth of the whole person comes from connection to others. So, from the unprecedented health and economic calamity, we have been reminded of the fundamental importance of being a part of something bigger and belonging with others who share the same experience. Therefore, to you the Alumni of the College, I reiterate our respect for you as members of our community and wholeheartedly wish for you to share in our future.

COLLEGE UPDATES

Caroline Payne

20 April 1957 - 26 March 2020

*"The Lord bless you and keep you;
the Lord make his face shine
on you and be gracious to you;
the Lord turn his face toward you and give you peace."*

Numbers 6:24-26

IN MEMORY OF CAROLINE PAYNE

It is with great sadness that we share with the community the passing of our much-loved Principal and leader Caroline Payne.

Caroline has been part of our Corpus family for 11 years, commencing as College Principal in 2009. She was an outstanding visionary leader and teacher who inspired all she met.

Caroline has championed numerous projects as part of her ongoing commitment to enhancing the educational opportunities for Corpus students. Her inspirational leadership and tenacity has resulted in many significant accomplishments, one example being the completion of the Theatre which was recently named after her.

Our status as an Apple Distinguished School future-proofed our students' education, setting Corpus apart from many other schools. It was Caroline's pioneering in this space that paved the way for the successful online learning delivery that we are currently able to offer in these uncertain times.

An inspiring, tenacious and visionary leader, Caroline touched many lives through her care and compassion for others.

We welcome those who wish to write in her condolence book to send their message here for inclusion:

WHAT'S ON AT CORPUS

A DIGITAL STEP AHEAD OF THE REST - CORPUS FEATURED IN APPLE VIDEO

On the Worldwide Stage

Corpus Christi College has become the first school worldwide to feature in Apple's global campaign for digital creativity in education.

Last year, Apple sent filmmakers from California to capture footage for the Everyone Can Create video, focusing on our one-to-one iPad program and a digitally integrated curriculum that inspires students to think differently about how and what they learn.

View the feature video here.

A Digitally Integrated Curriculum

The all-digital strategy subverts the idea of the traditional classroom, even integrating iPad use into subjects such as Physical Education and the Arts. Particularly successful is the College's digital creativity course, which was developed by staff and is compulsory for Years 7 and 8. Students develop and communicate their ideas through music, drawing, photography and video – a technology-enriched approach which then allows learning to be reimagined in all core subjects.

'Digital Creativity supports the College's Vision for Learning – "Ignite the Spirit" – which has connection, curiosity, challenge and creativity as its pedagogical foundation,' said Jamie Clark, Director of Digital Integration. 'By building a culture of creativity with an iPad, students have discovered new talents and developed innovative ways to show their learning.'

'The goal is to prepare students with the critical thinking skills they need to face problems they have never seen before. Teaching students answers prepares them for the questions they expect, but teaching students to think critically prepares students to face any challenge.'

Committed and Responsive

We have held Apple Distinguished School status since 2011, a designation reserved for exemplary programs that satisfy Apple's criteria for innovation, leadership and education excellence.

The College's commitment to digitally integrated learning was further vindicated when WA schools were required to switch to remote online learning in response to the COVID-19 outbreak. Even at short notice, teachers were able to deliver engaging, content rich programs to their students in a supportive, online environment. The feedback from parents was overwhelmingly positive and appreciative.

With students, teachers and parents all supportive of the College's digital strategy, it is a whole community approach to setting up students for life.

WEEKLY WELLBEING

In these challenging and unfamiliar times, student life has changed in unprecedented ways. Not only was learning shifted into an online delivery format for a number of weeks, but the day-to-day routines and interactions that keep us all connected to each other have also been affected. The College recognises that the emotional and spiritual wellbeing of our students is just as important as ensuring their educational programs are world-class. To this aim, the College launched a calendar of weekly wellbeing activities for Term 2.

The weekly Wellbeing Package consists of daily activities and challenges designed to keep students connected, active and motivated. While this pastoral resource is not a compulsory program, participation is strongly encouraged – the aim is not to add to student workload but to actually prevent and relieve the stress associated with learning in a new environment.

An example of the Package is the Week 1 offerings of:

Motivational Monday

Get fit and have fun with the Body Coach

Talent Tuesday

Develop a new talent in beat boxing

Wellbeing Wednesday

Reflecting on family and positivity

Try Something New Thursday

Dance to music

Faith in Action Friday

Prayer for Good Shepherd Sunday

In addition to students being able to self-select what suggestions work for them, guidance will also be provided on how to maintain healthy routines and make good use of downtime.

Beyond the classroom, the community-at-large is experiencing uncertainty and upheaval on an unprecedented scale. In looking out for the pastoral care of our students, we are supporting them to be able to navigate these changes as well. Like the rest of the nation, students are being called upon to be adaptable, resilient and patient while restrictions are in place. It can be confronting and upsetting to not be able to play your favourite sport, hang out with your friends, or go to places you normally would.

Thankfully, being socially distanced does not mean being socially disconnected from each other. Students are reminded they are part of a caring, supportive community. To keep House spirit alive, the College will be unveiling alternatives to the House competition activities we usually partake in. The College will also be listening to the student voice, engaging in two-way conversations on how we can best get through these challenging times together. For those needing additional help, our College psychologists are available to assist.

We encourage every community member to take care of themselves and each other as we continue on this journey.

PEOPLE OF CORPUS - STAFF

NAOMI LARSEN
HEAD OF YEAR 7
& PE TEACHER

Alumni - Class of 1993

When it comes to building a strong sense of community, Head of Year 7 Ms Naomi Larsen is a trusted team player.

The Corpus alum (Class of 1993) returned to the College in 2015 as a PE teacher and Head of Year, and since then has been involved in all facets of College life. She has helped coordinate numerous events in her capacity as a Head of Year, from the Year 7 Quest Retreat to the Year 9 Personal Project to the Year 12 Ball. She coaches Netball, Touch, Basketball, ACC Athletics and ACC Swimming, and was part of the successful 2019 Gold Coast Netball Tour. Whether it's positive education or health & wellbeing, Naomi is here to work with students and staff to ensure our minds and bodies are in good shape for the road ahead.

WHY DID YOU DECIDE TO BECOME A TEACHER?

A love for learning and a desire to share that with others influenced my decision to become a teacher. This, as well as supporting students to recognise their own passions, strengths and talents enabling them to achieve and succeed is one aspect of teaching I really enjoy.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE COLLEGE EVENT? WHY?

College events such as Corpus Christi Day, Retreats and Immersion programs are my favourite. They provide students and staff the opportunity to develop respectful relationships and positively contribute to the community.

DO YOU HAVE ANY ADVICE FOR NEW STUDENTS STARTING AT CORPUS?

Get involved! Take advantage of the many opportunities available at the College, there is something for everyone.

WILLIAM O'CALLAGHAN
SCIENCE TEACHER

Science teacher William O'Callaghan has been a member of the Corpus teaching staff since 2003. As well as being an active member of Chisholm house, William is the current coordinator of the Excelsis Club, which aims to promote and reward academic excellence in the Senior School. William decided to be a teacher after personal circumstances encouraged him to re-evaluate his life. Since then, his commitment to education has benefited the lives of countless students, especially those who have been able to reach their desired ATAR through achieving excellent scores in ATAR Physics. He greatly admires renowned Scottish physicist James Clerk Maxwell (1831-1879), who once said 'I have looked into most philosophical systems and I have seen that none will work without God.'

WHAT DO YOU LOVE MOST ABOUT WORKING AT CORPUS?

I love everything about working at Corpus. I feel like I'm part of a caring, nurturing team. The students are wonderful and their curiosity and eagerness to learn invigorates me.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE COLLEGE EVENT? WHY?

Mass at the end and beginning of each year. It just seems like the right way to start and finish, sharing the Eucharist with colleagues and friends.

HOW DO YOU LIKE TO SPEND TIME OUTSIDE OF WORK?

I read up on new developments in the field of Physics. I like to stay abreast of break edge discoveries and learn new things.

MICHAEL ROYALL
HOUSE COORDINATOR
& ENGLISH TEACHER

Alumni - Class of 2007

Salvado House Coordinator Mr Michael Royall is a true all-rounder, supporting students in a wide range of College activities.

The Corpus alum (Class of 2007) returned to the College in 2017 as an English Teacher and quickly made his mark. Since taking the helm of Salvado in Term 4, 2018 he has coordinated student involvement in numerous House events, including Salvado's impressive Swimming Carnival win in 2019. Michael is involved in Running Club, ACC Cross Country and SASJ Basketball for Years 8/9. Off the sporting field, he assists with Year 10 Public Speaking and has also contributed to staff podcasts. Mr Royall answered a last-minute call-up to help out on the 2018 Melbourne Dance Tour, where he gave his all to ensure students had the best time possible despite not being a Dance teacher. Whether it's Melbourne's public transport network, the English curriculum or Sport, students can rest assured Mr Royall will guide them in the right direction.

WHY DID YOU DECIDE TO BECOME A TEACHER?

I ask myself that same question every day... Kidding! I became a teacher when I realised my Journalism and Creative Writing degree wasn't going to get me very far. It's the best choice I have made too, because I absolutely love this profession!

WHAT DO YOU LOVE MOST ABOUT WORKING AT CORPUS?

The students! I love having discussions and a bit of a joke around with them.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE COLLEGE EVENT?

Corpus Christi Day, mainly because it gives me a chance to wander around aimlessly consuming any food in sight while giving money to a very worthy cause. The best part of Corpus Christi Day is easily the Talent Quest. Seeing the College community come together to celebrate the talent of our amazing students is always great fun!

WHAT ARE YOUR HOBBIES?

Running and listening to records while reading a good book.

CAROLINE STEVENSON
TEACHER IN CHARGE OF DANCE

Mrs Caroline Stevenson joined Corpus Christi College in Term 2 of 2018. She completed her professional dance training at the Australian Ballet School and has performed professionally with the Australian Youth Ballet Company, Australian Ballet Company and Remnant Dance Collective. She has toured extensively as a dancer, teacher, choreographer, examiner and adjudicator nationally and internationally. At Corpus, Caroline is an enthusiastic cheerleader for Romero House and has choreographed numerous dances that have been performed at masses, assemblies, Dance Galas, the Catholic Performing Arts Festival and most notably, the 2019 College production of Disney's Beauty and the Beast.

WHY DID YOU BECOME A TEACHER?

I have been teaching for a long time but not in a school context so becoming a secondary school teacher seemed like a natural transition. Some of my friends have asked me why teach in a school as opposed to a dance studio and my answer is two-fold: Unfortunately, there are still a lot of schools who have non-specialist teachers teaching dance and I wanted to give students studying curriculum dance the same opportunity of learning from an experienced dancer and teacher as students in studios. I also feel that in school we are creating dance artists as opposed to merely dance technicians. If a young person wants to have a future dance career, it is important that they are thinking dancers who understand the history and mechanics of dance and can create and are not just dancing robots.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE COLLEGE EVENT? WHY?

Every event that involves dance of course! Seriously though, I think my favourite College event would be Corpus Christi Day which is a day the students and teachers can interact in a more relaxed and fun way. The talent show towards the end of the day is always good fun.

FUN FACT ABOUT YOURSELF?

I have pulled a shark out of the ocean with my bare hands. I have met and danced for the Queen. I can also play the bass (very badly).

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

JOSH LOW | CLASS OF 2008

Seasoned traveller Josh Low (Class of 2008) recently embarked on an evangelisation mission with the Missioners of Christ in Comayagua, Honduras – an avenue for service that enabled him to serve the poorest of the poor.

It's a calling that the journalist felt compelled to answer after reflecting on all the blessings bestowed on him in his own life, and what the Lord was calling him to do to put his faith into action.

'More than 66% of Hondurans live in poverty, with many living on less than $2 USD a day,' Josh explained. 'I've been very blessed in my life, in all I've seen and experienced across the world, so giving back from what I've received is at the heart of this decision.'

Josh was most recently a media content producer at the Catholic Archdiocese of Perth / The Record magazine. However, if someone had asked him in his high school years if he would ever take on such a selfless challenge, he says he'd probably have responded in the negative.

He explained that his years in high school saw him not overly involved in his studies - preferring soccer to academics, and being present at Corpus and his parish without whole-heartedly participating in faith formation.

Although he eventually completed his tertiary studies at Murdoch University, the experiences afforded to him through travelling to 56 countries – whether for army service, study, work or leisure – is where he says he gained the most valuable life skills, which include acquiring and developing Mandarin, Italian, Spanish and Russian (and some Croatian).

The true lesson in his faith journey, however, manifested on previous trips to South America and Europe, where God consistently made himself known to him in deep and lasting ways, experiencing encounters beyond the realm of coincidence or luck.

It was through these unique moments that he realised God hadn't been at the centre of his life. Essentially, he felt that life had been all about himself, and said the travels, experiences and all the enjoyment along the way had all been self-focused, instead of on God and His will.

Because of this, spurred on by the words of St Teresa of Avila, that 'Christ has no body but yours', he desired to turn back to God, step out of his comfort zone and serve others out of love for the Lord and His Church.

He cites Romans 8:28 as a key, recurring sign that he is on the right path: 'And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, and are the called according to His purpose.'

'The evangelisation efforts of others over the past decade have had a profound impact on me and has led to where I am now, with a desire to humbly offer myself and my gifts and talents in a more radical way,' he said.

When asked for a piece of advice for current Corpus students, Josh offered a quote he himself was recently told.

'Being a good person is not enough. The difference between being a good person and a holy person is the source of the standard. To be a good person, we set our own standards for what it means to be good, whereas to be holy, God sets the standard. And holiness is worth striving for right here, right now.'

'And in the words of Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI, the world offers you comfort, but you were not made for comfort, you were made for greatness.'

RYAN KHONG | CLASS OF 2010

Setting goals and keeping motivated is key to achieving personal and professional growth. Digital Marketing guru Ryan Khong (Class of 2010) is a living example of the strides you can make through drive and dedication. Corpus Spirit caught up with Ryan after he was crowned 'Supernova of the Year' at the 2020 Campaign Brief WA Awards in April.

'I'm super stoked to have won,' Ryan said. 'Ever since graduating from Corpus Christi College in 2010 I have been continuously striving to create new businesses and projects which push me out of my comfort zone and have allowed my career to grow.'

Ryan's first taste of the industry was during his time at Murdoch University, where he studied a Bachelor of Interactive Digital Design. He started events promotion company Majesty Inc in the back half of his degree, with fellow Class of 2010 alum Stephen Murgia and Joshua Van Vugt. After graduation he commenced at WebSmart Design as a Web Designer/Digital Account Manager, however, landing a day job didn't stop Ryan from pursuing other opportunities. He created food truck brand Pauly K's Kitchen with his father, and also initiated Perth Food Adventures, collaborating with major brands in the hospitality industry.

The next step became clearer in 2016. 'Whilst working at the WebSmart Design position, I managed clientele and learned how to take the initiative in this digital industry,' Ryan explained. 'I launched my "side-hustle" Word of Mouth Agency, specialising in Web Design, Branding, Social Media Management, Content Creation & Digital Marketing (SEO, Google AdWords). Some major projects and brands I've personally worked with since its launch date are LJ Hooker, Salon Express, IGA, Dome & Snap Fitness.'

Even a casual role at Swan Yacht Club when his WebSmart Design role moved to part-time in 2017 led to accolades in innovation and promotions. Ryan led the club to back-to-back wins for marketing at the Clubs WA Industry Awards of Excellence in 2018 and 2019.

Seeing an opportunity to shore up their market position and advance their enterprise further, Ryan and his agency business partner Adam Perich (Class of 2010) bought the goodwill and existing clients of the WebSmart Design business from his former employer in March 2019. They settled both businesses into an office space in Applecross and focused on setting achievable goals in leadership and growth, expanding their team by hiring three staff.

'At this present moment, I am aiming to grow Word of Mouth Agency as my core business in the digital media industry of Perth by continuing to spread the word, take on bigger clients, expand our internal team and work with like-minded people to make a confident mark as an upcoming agency.'

He has encouraging and reassuring words for current students contemplating their career goals. 'If you don't know what you want to pursue after graduating – don't stress! If you do, that's great. But don't rush it! You have all the time in the world to figure out what you're passionate about. Don't compare your life to others. Everyone is moving at their own pace.'

For more information on Word of Mouth Agency, visit www.wordofmouthagency.com.au

The Word of Mouth Agency team (L-R): Sean Buchanan (Class of 2012), Ryan Khong (Class of 2010), Imogen Wieske and Adam Perich (Class of 2010).

BRIANNA MOWATT | CLASS OF 2014

The Archdiocese of Perth recently featured Brianna Mowatt's work with Identitywa as part of the Archbishop's 2020 Winter Appeal for LifeLink, which was launched in May with the aim of raising funds to directly help people in real need throughout Western Australia.

The Psychology graduate spent five years balancing her studies at Curtin University with a part-time role in disability support at the Archdiocesan agency. In assisting with providing personalised support to people living with disability, as well as their families, Brianna was able to witness the real difference such support can make.

She described an experience where helping two siblings learn how to ride a bike was so much more than facilitating play.

'After many weeks of persevering through each of their individual challenges and setbacks, they both, much to their delight, eventually achieved their goal!' she told the Archdiocese. 'It demonstrated their defining qualities, like their motivation and goal-orientated behaviour – qualities which I believe were so important for their ultimate development to be healthy and happy adults.'

Brianna's community-minded focus and ability to connect with others was fostered during her time at the College. She served as Salvado House Prefect and was active in numerous team sports, as well as Inter-house play. Her favourite memory from school, however, was being a part of the Mulan Immersion in Year 11.

She told the College, 'A group of eight students, myself and teachers travelled to the Aboriginal community of Mulan in the East Kimberley where we spent a week working with and supporting Aboriginal children build social skills and reach educational targets in their school and the community. This experience really opened up my mind to different cultures from my own and has stayed with me ever since! I believe it helped shaped my positive outlook and acceptance of others.'

In similar fashion, working at Identitywa has contributed immensely to her development.

'I've learnt tolerance and patience and I am much more knowledgeable and understanding of people with varying abilities.

'My Identitywa experience has taught me how to effectively and practically communicate, which I know will be extremely valuable in my chosen career.'

With her work at the agency now complete, Brianna now intends to pursue a career as a Child Protection Worker. Her journey so far is a testament to the value of being involved with organisations, including schools, that promote equity and inclusion.

AARON DARK | CLASS OF 2007

Finding out what a client needs and how best to meet these needs is a process most of us engage with in the course of our work. However, it's also important for us to question and discover what we need for ourselves so we can reach our God-given potential, both in our professional and personal lives. Aaron Dark (Class of 2007) can attest to the importance of curiosity – one of the four pillars of the College's Vision for Learning – in achieving our goals.

In his role as an Experience Designer at Bankwest, Aaron researches customer needs and creates design experiences with an eye to being both functional and enjoyable. It's a challenge that requires creative, innovative thinking. However, he didn't always know he would end up in such a role. Aaron didn't know what he wanted to do after Year 12, so studied the subjects he was most passionate about. Attaining Certificates in music and IT allowed him to explore his interests and strengths. He then began studying graphic design at Curtin University before switching to advertising and ultimately settling on print design and branding. After working several years as a print designer, he made the leap to UX/UI – designing mobile app and website experiences.

In hindsight, Aaron can see how his time at Corpus set him up for lifelong learning, encouraging him to connect with others and follow the spark of curiosity. He explained:

'The two retreats we went on were huge highlights for me. It pushed me to reflect on the person I was and gain self-awareness – all while getting to know other students who I'd never talked to.

'Of course, I didn't realise that at the time, but looking back at how curious I was to explore other students' back-stories and learn about them probably nudged me closer to my current profession.'

In addition to his role at the bank, Aaron is in collaboration with Learning Support specialist Andrew Thomas and teacher Carl Owen on a project called ATAR Support, an online education resource for ATAR revision and examination preparation. Tuition is recorded from materials provided by subject matter experts, and students can watch the recordings on-demand with the ability to pause, rewind and rewatch. The idea grew out of a previous project which created accessible revision materials for the Online Literacy and Numeracy Assessment (OLNA). The team had identified a significant gap in terms of accessible online delivery for students nationwide and went to work on developing resources that would meet these needs. With the current challenges in education worldwide, these supplements are needed more than ever.

Asked for advice for current students, Aaron said his 'hack' was as simple as asking the question. 'If you don't know, ask. You may feel dumb once, but never again.

'It's amazing how much you can achieve if you just ask. The doors that open and the opportunities created are unfathomable. So ask the questions, go the extra distance and be curious about anything you don't know.'

Deaths

VALE DI MAGRATH

It is with sadness that the College shares the news of the passing of Mrs Diane Magrath. Di worked at the College for 22 years, retiring in 2008.

She was a wonderful teacher who truly treasured her students. She loved her pastoral role as a Homeroom teacher too. Di taught and coordinated Home Economics and there will be many, many students who learnt to cook with her guidance.

As a colleague she was determined to welcome people and was a driving force in the social committee of the College. She worked tirelessly and really loved Corpus.

The College sends its condolences to her husband Ron and her family.

May she rest in peace.

In memory of Diane Magrath
